Dear John Dunning:

With this letter I register my disgust with and contempt for anyone who would produce a film like "ILSA, She Wolf of the SS."

It should not be necessary that one be Jewish or a woman in order to channel ones money and energy into films that are not anti-Semitic and misogynistic. It should only be necessary that one have a minimal sense of decency and an equally minimal respect for others. Clearly, these are lacking in your case. Since what matters to you is obviously making as many bucks as you can, do know that the local theatres which have shown the aforementioned film have lost a number of formerly regular patrons.
